ECONOMY WAVE IS SLOWED DOWN

This is the West Lincoln City Hall—which has been condemned

W. LINCOLN EXTENDS BEER SALE HOURS

... Then Faces New Problem

The West Lincoln Village Board has no sooner disposed of controversial beer problems than it takes up another major task—meeting a state condemnation order on the City Hall.

At a regular monthly meeting the Board voted three to one in favor of extending by one-half hour the closing times for on and off-sale of beer. The new and late hours are 1 a.m. for off-sale and 12:30 a.m. for on sale.

Just several weeks ago, the Board unanimously defeated a proposal for both longer hours and Sunday sale of beer.

The hours were extended with an ordinance introduced for first reading and given final passage after the board voted to waive second and third readings.

Another special meeting has been tentatively set for July 22 to consider plans for a special election on a bond issue for a new City Hall. The present City Hall has been condemned by the state fire marshal's office.

The combination City Hall and community center was defeated at a West Lincoln election several years ago. The present City Hall, now some 90 years old, was not then condemned.

Board member Merle Wilken was absent from the meeting at which the beer sale hours were extended. The vote against the extension was cast by Mayor Fred Way.

More Damp Heat, Rains Predicted

... Funnel Smashes Curtis Farm

High temperatures, high humidity and showers or thunderstorms were forecast again Wednesday for Nebraska after a night that saw funnels bouncing around the south-central portion but apparently only one causing damage.

Two stationary weather fronts which remained over Nebraska Tuesday accounted for the moist, unstable air covering all of the state except the northeast corner.

A tornado in Frontier County in southwestern Nebraska Tuesday night leveled everything, including the farm home on the Roy Thompson place, located about six miles southeast of Curtis. No one was reported injured.

Plainly Visible

County Sheriff R. P. Pederson was out checking the area for damage and was unavailable for comment, but his wife said the funnel, plainly visible from Curtis, seemed to pass between Curtis and Stockville.

REA lines were reported downed and crops were damaged by the heavy rains and hail that fell in the area.

In other parts of the state tornadoes that dissipated without damage were reported near Clay Center, Nelson and Geneva.

The prediction was for late afternoon thundershowers Wednesday and showers Wednesday night which might bring sizable amounts of rainfall, particularly to eastern Nebraska.

At Ashland, Salt Creek continued to drop, but rains to the northwest Tuesday were expected to cause a rise in Sand, Wahoo and Cottonwood Creeks at Ashland. They were predicted to crest Wednesday morning.

Crop Damage

One report of "considerable crop damage" came from Boyd county where the sheriff reported wind and hail damage locally near Lynch and 1.10 inches of rain at Butte.

Severe damage to crops was reported from Burt and Cuming counties Tuesday with some flooding of lowlands in that area.

A five-inch rain, some hail and wind southwest of Lyons was reported Tuesday. Schuyler reported 3.2 inches of rain, with hail damage occurring between Pender and Wakefield.

Temperatures Wednesday were to again reach into the 90s after Tuesday's state high of 97 at Imperial and Scottsbluff. Sidney recorded the state's low of 55 during the past 24 hours.

Mate Captured For Rosie Crane Dies After Chase

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A mate captured for Rosie, the whooping crane in the San Antonio zoo, died Tuesday at the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge.

The male bird, which did not fly north with the rest of the flock this spring, was captured after a 3-hour chase. Game authorities said he apparently died of heat exhaustion.

JOANNE CONNELLEY ... dies in Switzerland.

World Glamour Girl Dies

NEUCHÂTEL, Switzerland (AP)—Joanne Connelley, New York glamour girl who became the central figure in two sensational divorces, died Tuesday at 27.

A doctor summoned to her villa attributed death to a heart attack, her Swiss attorney said.

Her divorce from Bolivian millionaire Jaime Ortiz-Patino, 28, would have become final in two weeks.

"When her maid came to wake her this morning," attorney Claude Raymond said, "she saw that she was very ill."

"A doctor was called immediately and diagnosed a heart attack. There was just time to call a priest — she was a Roman Catholic — and she died a few minutes after 8 a.m. after receiving the last blessings of the church. Her mother was with her to the last."

'48 Debutante

Mrs. Patino and her mother, Mrs. Peggy Watts of New York, had taken a summer villa in the village of Montmolin, in the Jura mountains five miles from Neuchâtel.

Mrs. Patino was New York's most beautiful debutante of 1948. She was a honey-haired blonde.

She had two children by businessman golfer Robert Sweeney of New York and London.

Sweeney divorced her in February, 1954, charging she had committed adultery with Porfirio Rubirosa, international playboy.

She married Ortiz-Patino in Paris April 22, 1954 and ran away from him only 49 days later while they were on a honeymoon in Rome. She turned up in Frankfurt, Germany, and later started divorce proceedings in Switzerland, charging he brutally mistreated her.

Huge Defense Bill Is Passed

$34½ Billion In New Funds OK'd; House Total Hiked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense-minded Senators slowed down the congressional economy wave Tuesday night by passing a military money bill carrying more than $34½ billion dollars in new funds.

Passage was by a unanimous 74-0 vote.

The Senate total was $34,534,229,000, or nearly a billion dollars $971,504,000—more than the House voted on May 29.

This biggest annual money measure now goes back to the House which is expected to send it on to a Senate-House compromise committee later this week or early next week.

As the bulky defense bill left the Senate it included most of the defense funds finally asked by President Eisenhower. Less than a quarter billion dollars were missing. And these may be provided by supplemental appropriations or authority to transfer other unspent funds.

Operating Funds

The bill carries new annual operating funds for the fiscal year that began Monday.

The Senate voted $16,384,093,000 for the Air Force; $10,054,225,000 for the Navy and Marines; $7,397,156,000 for the Army; $682,375,000 for interservice activities; and $16,350,000 for the office of the secretary of defense.

This was about 1½ billion dollars below President Eisenhower's initial budget requests. But Eisenhower had scaled those down by more than 1½ billion dollars.

Before the final passage, a voice vote adopted an amendment directing that "so far as practicable" defense contracts be awarded on a competitive basis "to the lowest responsible bidder."

Economy Stab Resisted

But the Senate beat down 24-9 a last minute effort, led by Republicans, to chip more than 182½ million dollars out of the 34½ billion dollar total of the bill.

At one point, amid much confusion, the economy effort spearheaded by Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho) appeared to have succeeded.

But a rally led by Republican Leaders Knowland of California and Saltonstall of Massachusetts finally defeated the effort.

Earlier the Senate had beaten down 65-7 a Democratic drive led by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) to trim about half of the 97½ million dollar addition over House totals approved by the powerful Senate purse-string committee.

The Senate voted to ask the secretary of defense to eliminate any "overlapping, duplication and waste" in the new defense funds.

A voice vote approved this amendment to the bill.

In a move to get the bill out of the way and clear the decks for a civil rights filibuster expected next week, the Senate met an hour early Tuesday. But members talked of other things for the first five hours of the session, delaying actual consideration.

New Set Up Proposed

Initially Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) and other sponsors had proposed that Congress direct the President to set up, within 180 days, a "Civilian-managed agency" in the Defense Department to buy all "common supply items" for all military departments and services.

As legislation in an appropriation bill, this would have required a two-thirds favorable vote.

After hours of wrangling, O'Mahoney finally agreed to drop this section. This toned down the amendment to the authorization for the secretary of defense to take appropriate action to "achieve economy, efficiency and effectiveness in noncombatant services, activities and operations."

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) insisted this merely was a lot of words reminding the secretary to "do what he is supposed to do."

Other senators differed. They said it would give Secretary of Defense Wilson broad authority to transfer funds, personnel and records in order to cut defense spending.

WILSON SEES:

Yanks' Ouster Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson said Tuesday the "practical effect" of a proposed congressional resolution to end foreign trials of GI's would be to force "withdrawal of U.S. forces from all over the world."

Wilson led an administration assault on the resolution by Rep. Bow (R-Ohio) as the House Foreign Affairs Committee issued sharply conflicting reports on the issue.

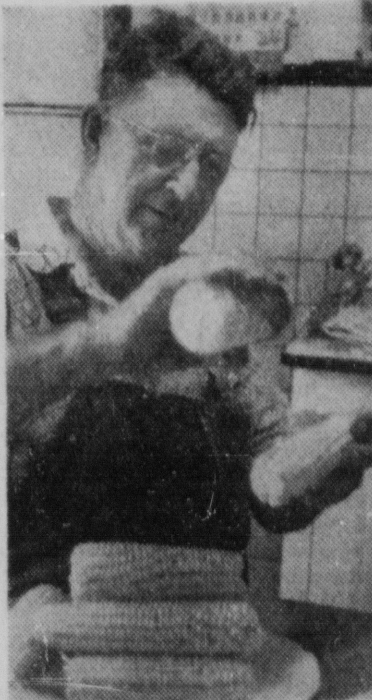

The committee approved the Bow resolution 18-8 last week. It is scheduled for House debate next week, with leaders predicting its passage.

A committee majority headed by Rep. Burleson (D-Tex) said the time has come for a basic review of international obligations undertaken when America's postwar alliance system was first formed. Such agreements include those granting foreign countries jurisdiction over servicemen accused of off-duty crimes.

The majority criticized administration handling of the case of Army Specialist J.C. William S. Girard, which gave impetus to the Bow resolution. It said American jurisdiction over GI's abroad has been gradually whittled away.

Japan wants to try Girard in the fatal shooting of a Japanese woman on a military firing range, and the administration agrees. But a federal district judge here has ruled that Girard can only be tried by an Army court-martial because, the judge held, the Ottawa, Ill., soldier was on duty at time of the shooting. The Supreme Court will hear arguments on the case next week.

MIGHTY GOOD (EARLY) CORN

With a little butter and then a dash of salt, sweet corn on the cob is "mighty good eatin'," says Cecil McAdams of 2048 Holdrege as he gets set to sink his teeth into one of the 31 roasting ears he has already picked from his garden. He planted the hybrid sweet corn April 15. Sweet corn normally would be ready for eating on July 4, but according to Extension Horticulturist Wayne Whitney of the University of Nebraska, most of the corn is just starting to silk out now because the growing season was set back about ten days by weather conditions this year. McAdams' roasting ears are some of the first in town. (Star Photo).

NURSE TAKES BLOOD FROM PEN INMATE

PRISONERS GIVE BLOOD IN TIME FOR THE 4TH

Three hundred thirty-three of the 774 Nebraska State Penitentiary inmates rolled up their sleeves Tuesday to give blood which may make up for that spilled on highways by Nebraskans and Iowans during the July 4th holiday.

Bloodmobile workers from the Nebraska-Iowa Blood Center, Red Cross volunteers and hospital staff members took several hundred pints of blood which will go to hospitals in the two states.

Bloodmobile units since 1948 have visited the Penitentiary twice a year, during the Christmas holidays and again near the 4th of July when traffic accident tolls are high.

Donations from the general public are slack during these periods.

This year, for the first time in Nebraska, inmates who donated were given five days off their sentences. Prison officials say this system has been successful in other states.

One inmate, a member of the "Gallon Club," said, "I've given about 12 times and am glad to do it. Two of my relatives were shot up pretty badly during the war. I'm glad to be able to replace the blood they received."

Red Cross nurses, nurse's aides, canteen workers, staff aides and motor service drivers from Lancaster County chapter helped with the operation.

The operation ran smoothly. One of the two guards on duty at the hospital said, "We never have any trouble. The morale is high and the men are glad to give."

Lincoln Damage Much Below '51

... In Monday's Flash Flooding

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

The overall damage of Monday's flood was "much less" than the $300,000 damage suffered in the 1951 Antelope Creek disaster, according to City Engineer Carl Fisher.

Fisher said he was not positive because of his lack of complete facts on all flood victims but that his personal opinion was that damage was less than in 1951.

MAJOR FLOOD DAMAGE TO 15-20 HOMES

Fifteen to 20 Lincoln homes received "major damage" and about 119 "minor damage" in Monday's flood, according to a survey taken by the Red Cross.

Two of the hardest hit areas, the Red Cross said, were from 33rd to 37th on Baldwin, St. Paul, Madison and Huntington Streets. No one, however, required overnight shelter from Red Cross officials Tuesday night.

The Fire Department reported it had pumped out more than 100 basements and the City Street Department pumped out about 40. Officials estimated another 25 or so remained to be pumped.

A. B. Gorman of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. reported the high water knocked out between 1,500 and 1,600 telephones, but that nearly all were working by Tuesday evening. A wet cable near Corner and South accounted for 750 disrupted lines, he said.

U.S. Favors 10-Month Nuclear Tests Ban

Prompt Study By Russians Is Promised

LONDON (AP) — The United States Tuesday night conditionally proposed a 10-month ban on all atomic and H-bomb tests.

The conditions laid down by Harold E. Stassen, U.S. delegate, before the U. N. disarmament subcommittee.

1. That Russia and the West at the same time agree to stop producing materials for nuclear arms in 1959.
2. That the bans on both tests and production should be supervised and controlled.
3. That the bans should be written into a limited disarmament treaty.

Soviets Pleased

Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin said he welcomed Stassen's statement. He indicated it would be referred to Moscow promptly for top-level study.

Before Stassen spoke, the four Western members of the subcommittee said a temporary suspension of tests had been brought "within the realm of possibility" by Russia's decision to let international inspectors enter the Soviet Union to guard against cheating on an international agreement.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Delegate Jules Moch gave full support to Stassen's proposal.

Lloyd spoke to the subcommittee just before Stassen made his statement.

Prompt Action Urged

The British diplomat suggested that Soviet and Western experts should begin talks at once with the aim of designing a detailed system of controls and inspection.

After hearing Stassen, Zorin said he was happy that the Western powers—the United States, Britain, France and Canada—had recognized the need to stop tests. He said he felt gratitude that the West was trying to get agreed solutions.

His statement raised hopes among Western delegates about the eventual outcome of the talks.

2 Men Injured In Car Wreck Listed In Good Condition

Two Lincoln men who were injured in a three-car accident at 11th and Q were reported in good condition at a local hospital.

Police said Millington B. Packard, 78, of 4222 Garland, and Merle L. Huff, 52, of the same address, suffered possible internal injuries when the car Packard was driving was in collision with cars driven by Robert L. Harder, 21, of 1334 Washington, and Charles H. Hinds, 54, of 1904 Harwood.

Packard was driving south on 11th, Harder west on Q and Hinds east on Q when the mishap occurred, police said.

Youth Recreation Survey Underway

Lincoln Youth Project has begun a survey of recreational programs presently available in Lincoln.

Director Lloyd L. Voigt said that the survey, which will be done by the local staff members, should be completed by early fall.

Two new staff members have arrived in Lincoln and will be helping with the survey. They are Donald J. Baker of Berkeley, Mo., former psychiatric department member at the Veterans Hospital in St. Louis, and John R. Ahnert of Iowa City, Ia., formerly with the Iowa State University Psychiatric Hospital.

PETERSON:

500 DEATHS 'NEEDLESS'

Val Tells Of New Warning Device

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower was told Tuesday that the estimated 500 victims of the Louisiana hurricane-flood catastrophe perished needlessly.

Former Civil Defense administrator Val Peterson, who surveyed the disaster area for the chief executive, declared: "Not a single life need have been lost if people had only heeded the warnings of the Weather Bureau and moved to places of refuge."

At the same time, Peterson disclosed that the government is completing tests of a small, inexpensive "squawker" warning device, a horn about the size of a double socket which would be connected with home electrical systems.

Signal From CDA

Its warning blast would be set off by a signal on the power line from Civil Defense headquarters.

Peterson said the "squawker" would notify families to turn on their radios to receive instructions as to possible evacuation.

Peterson said: "The thing is to convince people that it's just common sense to take refuge from impending disaster."

Two Days Before

He declared that people in and around Cameron, La., were warned by the Weather Bureau two days before the catastrophe struck.

Peterson said about 1,000 persons took refuge in the concrete courthouse at Cameron and were saved, but all who remained in their homes perished.

He estimated that "tens of thousands" would have died had the tidal wave caused by the hurricane hit a densely populated section.

Three-Stall Garage Damaged By Fire

A three-stall garage with a motorcycle and a bicycle parked inside was damaged considerably at 1738 So. 14th, fire department officials said.

Firemen contained the blaze to the garage, owned by H. H. Jordan of 1644 Washington. Fire department officials believed the fire may have started by children playing with matches in the garage.

COUNTY RENEWS 19 AMUSEMENT LICENSES

The Lancaster County Board has approved these amusement license renewals following public hearings Tuesday and a week ago:

Arrow-Inn, Bob's Beer and Cafe; Capitol Beach Amusement Park and King's Ballroom; 84th and O Drivels Theater; East Hills Country Club; Lee's Drive-In; Lone Oak Cafe; Meadow Acres Golf Range; Micro-Midget Races; Northeast Bowling Lanes; Play-Mor Ballroom; Rockett Speedway; Skyline Bar; Smith's Golf Park; West O Drive-In Theater; The Steak House; Sunset Party House; Turnpike Ballroom.

Inheritance Tax Funds May Help Antelope Dam

The Lancaster County Board indicated Tuesday that the county would consider appropriating some inheritance tax fund money to aid in the cost of the proposed Antelope Creek dam at the southeast edge of Lincoln.

Board Chairman Del Lienemann, who made the suggestion, said he thought the county could give $100,000 to $150,000 if that would help initiate the project.

County Engineer L. W. Weaver told the board that the 1952 estimate of the dam's cost was $632,000, with land acquisition probably not included.

The Board indicated it would meet with other groups interested in the dam project. Interest had been spearheaded by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

O. H. Liebers, co-chairman of the Salt-Wahoo Watershed Association said he welcomed the suggestion by the board because of the need for "a concerted effort by the entire community."

"I feel that every agency, county, city, the Sanitary District and every citizen ought to interest themselves in getting this job completed," he stated.

The Association has been working on the Antelope dam project for eight years as a part of the proposed flood control plan for the Salt-Wahoo basin.

Liebers said that to culminate the project "will require co-ordination of all agencies to work with the federal government."

Congress has the Antelope Creek dam project under consideration.

Death Of Boy, 2, At Ansley May Be Electrocution

ANSLEY, Neb. (AP)—Bobby Chaney, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chaney of Ansley, was killed Tuesday while playing with a companion at his home and Dr. Clyde Wilcox said the body gave the appearance of death by electrocution. But the manner of death could not immediately be determined.

The 44,000 member union had sought an immediate 22 1/2 per cent pay raise. Daily pay now varies from $14.82 to $19.09 for engineers. Firemen members of the union get $13.10 to $16.79.

Flight Line First Aid Station Opened At Base

A new flight line first aid station and dispensary has been opened for flight crews and maintenance personnel at Lincoln Air Force Base.

The station is operated by medical corpsmen to handle minor injuries. Hours will be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Engineers Granted A Pay Boost

... 13% Increase

CHICAGO (AP)—A tentative three-year agreement between the nation's railroads and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has been reached by negotiations.

The terms, calling for an eventual 13 per cent boost, which will be submitted to general chairmen of the brotherhood on the various lines, were disclosed Tuesday by the national mediation board.

They call for a first year increase of 6 per cent in the average basic daily rates of engineers, retroactive to Nov. 1. Increases of 3.5 per cent are provided for the second and third years, becoming effective Nov. 1 of 1957 and 1958.

Paid Holidays

Yard engineers of each railroad are granted the option of taking seven paid holidays a year beginning Nov. 1, 1957, or Nov. 1, 1958, but if seven holidays are taken in the 1957-58 period, 2 cents an hour will be deducted from the second and third year increases.

Or, if they exercise the seven-day holiday option, effective Nov. 1, 1958, holiday option, effective Nov. 1, 1958, then 4 cents an hour will be converted from the third year pay raise to pay the cost of the paid holidays.

A cost of living escalator clause, provides for shifts of one cent per hour in pay, upward or downward with each 1/2 cent change in the Bureau of Labor Statistics consumer price index, with an index of 117.1 serving as the base. Adjustments will be made every six months, effective May 1 this year.

A clause in the proposed settlement would prevent any other wage increases or decreases than those specified from becoming effective before Nov. 1, 1959.

The 44,000 member union had sought an immediate 22 1/2 per cent pay raise. Daily pay now varies from $14.82 to $19.09 for engineers. Firemen members of the union get $13.10 to $16.79.

Affect 225 Here

Approximately 225 locomotive engineers working out of Lincoln will be affected by the agreement, according to Harry Howard, local chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Most of these, about 250, are employed by the Burlington, he said. The remainder are mainly switch engine operators with the Chicago & Northwestern, Missouri Pacific, Rock Island and Union Pacific railroads.

HELLS CANYON FOES CONTEND IT'S DEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Interior subcommittee Tuesday dealt what Republicans claimed would be a death blow to Hells Canyon dam legislation, the center of a major private vs. public power fight.

Democratic backers conceded they would have to change some votes to keep the bill alive. It would authorize a high federal dam that would flood the sites of three dams the Idaho Power Co. plans on the Snake River bordering Idaho and Oregon.

Voting 15-12, the subcommittee struck from the bill all but its enabling clause and sent it to the parent Interior Committee. Gutting a bill in this fashion is often a way of hastening it to its grave.

Should the Hells Canyon bill show signs of reviving, opponents claim enough strength to defeat it in the Interior Committee and keep it off the House floor.

The subcommittee has 29 members and the full committee 31.

Passed By Senate

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Grace Pflast (D-Idaho), is similar to one which the Senate passed last month over the opposition of the Eisenhower administration.

Mrs. Pflast told a newsman later: "We lost a skirmish but we have not lost the game. We're going to fight to the finish. I still think we'll win. I'm banking on getting the bill through the full committee."

To do this would probably require some vote switching since there would be only four more votes on the full committee than were cast Tuesday in the subcommittee. Two of those votes would belong to supporters of the bill, one to an opponent and the fourth to a member who would be expected to vote against the measure or abstain.

3 Injured In Accident; All Satisfactory

MILFORD, Neb. — Three persons were injured Tuesday afternoon in a car-truck accident three miles north of here at the junction of U.S. Highway 6 and State Highway 15.

The State Safety Patrol reported a truck driven by Lester M. McCormick, 41, of Red Cloud, was in collision with a car driven by Henry C. Schlegler, 45, of 520 B in Lincoln.

Schlegler, his wife, Margaret, 50, and their 10-year-old granddaughter, Vickie Betz of Linwood, Calif., were injured. Schlegler suffered shock and an arm injury, his wife suffered a forehead cut which required 40 stitches to close, numerous other cuts and a possible fractured vertebra, and their granddaughter suffered a possible skull fracture and numerous cuts, the Patrol said.

McCormick was driving south on Highway 6 and Schlegler was attempting to turn onto Highway 6 from Highway 15 when the mishap occurred. The truck turned over on its side after the impact, but McCormick was not hurt, the Patrol said.

Schlegler, his wife and granddaughter were listed in satisfactory condition at a Lincoln hospital.

Kennedy Urges U.S. Influence To Settle French-Algeria Dispute

GOP Sounds Caution Note

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans sounded a note of caution Tuesday as Democratic demands arose in the Senate for the United States to press for "political independence for Algeria."

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said the United States should abandon attempts to "save a myth of a French Empire" and try, instead, to "save the French nation as well as free Africa."

In a carefully prepared address as chairman of a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, Kennedy, supported by Sens. Mansfield (D-Mont.); Chavez (D-NM) and others, declared:

"The war in Algeria, engaging more than 400,000 French soldiers, has stripped the continental forces of NATO to the bone. It had dimmed western hopes for a European common market . . ."

He offered a resolution by which the Senate and House would authorize President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles to use American influence to settle the bitter French-Algerian dispute on the basis of independence of Algeria and try to "save the West from total catastrophe in Algeria."

'Good Offices'
The resolution calls for the United States to act first either through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) or through the "good offices" of the prime minister of Tunisia and the Sultan of Morocco.

If no substantial progress has been made by this course by the time the United Nations General Assembly meets in the fall, the resolution would have the United States support an international effort to achieve Algerian independence.

Sen. Dirksen of Illinois, assistant Republican floor leader expressed concern over "the impact of the resolution in France."

"Do we help the situation, or do we worsen it?" Dirksen said. He stressed the importance of France as a NATO ally and the "delicate problem with which the French contend in Algeria."

Dirksen said at one point he thought that sometimes there is a disposition on the part of the Senate to make too far-reaching and embarrassing suggestions to the President and Secretary of State on matters on which they are seeking solutions.

'Brass Band'
"I do say that this administration is not wanting in diligence in their efforts to seek a solution to the Algerian dispute," he added. "Work of this kind is not done most effectively with a brass band."

Sen. Morton (R-Ky.), a former assistant secretary of state, observed that "we don't kick one of our strongest NATO allies out the window."

Kennedy said there should be recognition of "France's refusal to bargain in good faith with Nationalist leaders" and to grant promised reforms.

"This is not a record to view with pride as Independence Day approaches," Kennedy said of U.S. policies. "No matter how complex the problems posed by the Algerian issue may be, the record of the United States in this case is, as elsewhere, a retreat from the principles of anti-colonialism, regardless of what diplomatic niceties, legal technicalities or even strategic considerations are offered in its defense."

Gage County Harvest Starts

A few Pickrell area farmers ventured into over-ripe wheat fields late Tuesday. Self-propelled machines like the one above, operating on the Clarence Emal farm at Pickrell, functioned best in the wet fields. On the machine are, from left, Joe Guenther, Norman Sullivan and Emal. Emal estimated the wheat would run 40 bushels to the acre. Moisture content remained high. At Plymouth, in nearby Jefferson County, Bill Niemeyer at the Farmers Elevator reported a load of wheat from the David Jantzen farm nine miles east of Beatrice, tested 61 pounds to the bushel and a moisture content of nearly 16 per cent. ## Ford Van Co. Plans Move To Kinsey's

Ford Van Lines, Inc., plans to move from 1630 P to the building now housing the Kinsey Implement and Truck Co. at 56th and Havelock about Sept. 1, after fairly extensive remodeling is completed.

Revenue stamps on the deed transferring title to the land and buildings from Pauline Niederhaus to Ford Van Lines indicate the sale price was about $155,000.

The four and a half acre tract is part of 54 acres that the late Jacob Niederhaus bought for $2,005 at a sheriff's sale in 1945, according to County Register of Deeds J. G. Vaughan.

Ford Van Lines probably will sell or rent the downtown building it will vacate, according to Ray Osborn, executive director.

He said the Skyline Cafe will continue to occupy part of the building at 56th and Havelock.

The Kinsey firm expects to move into a building being constructed at 1630 Cornhusker Highway in about six weeks, according to Robert Kinsey, secretary-treasurer.

Up Go Valuations

Nebraska counties' reports on the 1957 valuation of real and personal property are still too incomplete to come to conclusions for the entire state. The total valuation may show an increase or may reflect a decrease.

But it would have been surprising if Lancaster County, including Lincoln, had not been one of the few out of 93 here in Nebraska to reveal an increase in valuation. Here we are up 3.07 per cent or a matter of $11.5 million, the amount of personal property owned by Lancaster County people is less than a year ago. All of the increase in valuation is to be attributed to real estate.

While there is no breakdown in the report we assume that greatest increase in real estate comes on residential properties since they are the largest number affected. We have spent a lot of money on the residential sections of Lincoln in the last two years.

That explains why the real estate valuations show an increase notwithstanding the general trend is in the other direction.

Dormitory Planning

Financing studies envisioning an outlay of $4,750,000 for additional student housing are going forward under the direction of a three-man Regents committee of the University of Nebraska.

The project calls for a new men's dormitory of 1,000 beds comparable to the existing Sellsick Quadrangle. It would also provide for married students' housing to the extent of 100 apartments. The target date for completion of construction is 1960.

The University is developing its dormitory system through revenue bond issues rather than by general taxes. The program is self-liquidating in that charges to the student occupants defray the capital investment.

It has been the experience of Nebraska University as well as other colleges and schools that modern dormitories serve a multitude of beneficial purposes. Not the least of them is the assurance of high standard housing at dependable and reasonable prices, conveniently located and conducive to the best in scholarship. The self-liquidating feature has the approval of taxpayers generally.

It is only being realistic that the University engages further in the field of housing. Education is an institution of growth, constantly requiring more instructional facilities with the accompanying problem of accommodation of the greater and greater numbers of students.

One does not forget that instructional accommodations were the first concern in the early phases of midwestern public education. But the arrival of dormitories as a completion of the educational responsibility serves notice that maturity is arriving in the Middle West.

Threshold Of Change

If members of the Nebraska Congressional delegation took earlier protests as a sign of single-mindedness against Blue River dams they now have ample evidence that the question is a two-sided one.

Early this week 219 residents of the Little Blue Watershed cast a policy vote on the suggested construction of the Angus dam above Hebron.

The result was 200 in favor to 19 against. This is food for thought for the delegation. Certainly entrenched attitudes are beginning to change in southeast Nebraska. And it has not all been due to the flash floods which historically have roared seasonally down the Nemaha, the Big and Little Blue watersheds.

There is a growing uneasiness over the agricultural future of a rich, normally wet section of the state which for so many years enjoyed the reputation of leading in stability and prosperity. The slogan that, "There is never any wrong in southeast Nebraska that a good rain can't cure," is becoming open to question. Lately—some irrigated regions of the state are tossing 100 bushel corn yields, unpunctuated by drought failures, at long-time 30 bushel averages in the wetter but unirrigated sections. And that is something that no plain shower will cure. Prices based on high yields trim the profit margin out of what was once an enviable yield.

Thoughts of bringing the abundant southeast Nebraska rivers under control amount to the first stirring of portentous changes to come. Diversification is rushing at Nebraska with express train speed. Fortunately for eastern and southeastern Nebraska the soil and climate are there for an infinite variety of production. The case of water control and future prosperity is not a case for anxiety. Rather it is one of stirring promise.

Timber Lesson

Albeit the Eisenhower administration backed by many is taking a lighthearted view of the national resources with too much evidence of a willingness to permit their exploitation, it still stands as one of the most substantial national contributions that the Theodore Roosevelt administration early in the century jammed a conservation program past its critics.

Forty years ago the nation was removing its timber five times faster than it was being replaced. There wasn't any true forest conservation. Had this decline been allowed to continue it is easy to imagine the hardship this present generation would have encountered. Fortunately stern conservation measures halted the exploitation. Replanting was required; selective timbering was enforced. Today despite greatly increased demand for wood products the planted fast growing stock has exceeded the amount of saw timber that is being cut. This is not to say that quality for quality the loss has been covered. But it is to say that a crisis was averted.

The nation has learned its lesson in timber. But it is not always applying the lesson to other resources in the same character.

We've Changed

The Milwaukee Journal ran its finger down the list of forthcoming movies and pondered the changes in American taste for entertainment. Once viewers roared over the antics of comedians, wept over such sweet girls as Mary Pickford or stirred over such productions as Gone With The Wind. What the Journal saw listed for today's viewers was this:

"The Monster That Challenged the World. A giant mass of destruction."

"The Vampire. It claws! It drains blood! It feeds on the blood of beautiful women."

"Monster From Green Hell. Nightmare thrills beyond belief."

"Half Human. Half man, half beast, but all monster."

"Man Afraid. Terrifying suspense."

"I Was a Teenage Werewolf. Explosive! Terrifying! See disembodied hand that crawls."

Country Headed For More Inflation

WASHINGTON — The increase in the price of steel will not be the only one to help hike the cost of living this summer. It will be followed by a chain reaction of price increases, all further decreasing the buying power of the white collar worker, the farmer, the school teacher, the oldster living on a pension, and anyone with a fixed or low income.

Aluminum manufacturers are expected to ask a penny a pound more on Aug. 1, because of a 15-cent-an-hour wage boost. The meat and glass industries will increase prices. The price of men's flannels will go up three cents per pound, ammonia $8 a ton, and the leading TV manufacturers will try to get $20 more per set.

There's already been a lot of agitation about inflation. But you ain't seen nothing yet.

NO TAX CUT IN '58
Most important political effect of the increased cost of steel will not be felt until about next January. This is the period when politicians will try to carry out that long awaited promise of a cut in taxes.

They won't admit it, but the inside fact is there will be no tax cut.

The reason is quite simple. The increased price of steel, together with other simultaneous, spiraling prices, will add $4 billion to the budget. This just about absorbs the surplus on which both political parties based their promise of a tax cut.

It is no secret that the biggest bill Uncle Sam has to pay is for military hardware. This is the term given battleships, submarines, tanks, armored cars, trucks, and guns. So when the price of steel goes up, the man who feels it most is the uncle who has to pay for this hardware.

There's another reason why there will be no tax cut. In addition to the $4 billion extra for hardware, another extra billion will be added to the expense of government because of higher interest rates. Uncle Sam will pay that extra billion just to borrow money.

Messrs. Humphrey and Burgess have hiked the interest rate on government bonds to the highest point since the depression, with the result that interest on the national debt is also at an all-time high.

IKE GETS KICKED

Twice President Eisenhower has appealed to business and labor to hold down prices and wages, and each time he has been promptly kicked in the teeth by the big business leaders who did so much to elect him.

TVA Future In Question Again

WASHINGTON—The Budget Bureau is once again the instrument by which Sherman Adams, the powerful assistant to the President, is making the power policy of the United States government.

Adams' original stab at the Tennessee Valley Authority was the Dixon-Yates power contract for that area. A Senate investigation showed that it originated in the White House with Adams and the Budget Bureau. Later the President canceled it on conflict of interest grounds involving Adolph H. Wenzel, a New York investment broker who was a Budget Bureau consultant on power.

Senator John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, an Eisenhower Republican, tried hard during the struggle to explain to the President all that TVA supporters, including the many in his state, felt was involved in such a behind-the-scenes operation as Dixon-Yates. He failed. The next year he failed also of re-election, in part because of the power issue.

Last year Cooper was again elected to the Senate together with another Eisenhower Republican, Thurston B. Morton. This was partly due to a Democratic factional fight but, nevertheless, their success was rightly hailed as a major breakthrough for Modern Republicanism in the South.

Cooper meanwhile had served the President as ambassador to the crucial but difficult Asian power, neutralist India. Morton also had done a good job for him as assistant secretary of state for congressional relations. Both men came to the Senate last January, hopeful that they could serve as ambassadors from TVA to the White House.

This year is crucial for that agency, which is both a great public power project and a world symbol of reclaimed land and lives in impoverished river valleys everywhere. A vacancy on the three-man commission occurred last month, giving the Eisenhower administration its second appointee and effective control for its point of view.

Last Wednesday Cooper went again to the White House to press for his and Morton's choice, representative Howard Baker, a Republican from a Tennessee congressional district in the TVA area. The President explained he had decided against giving any member of Congress executive appointments.

He referred Cooper to Adams. Adams said they were "still looking" and mentioned Arnold R. Jones of Kansas, deputy director of the budget.

Friday morning Morton got a call from the White House to say Jones had been tapped for TVA. Morton knew him but had no knowledge of his TVA views or experience with power projects. He protested that he needed to get some idea of how Jones felt and Jones called on him to discuss it. The appointment, meanwhile, went to the Senate.

Cooper heard about it from reporters. He said to them that his opinion was not asked, that he had never met Jones and did not know his views.

Weather Disasters Atomic Age Practice

EN ROUTE TO YUCCA FLAT, Nev. — It seemed appropriate, on the way to witnessing what will be the biggest atomic blast ever held in this country, to talk with Val Peterson.

The former federal Civil Defense administrator, who is soon going to Copenhagen as U. S. ambassador, was back in the muck and mire of nature-spawned disaster in the wake of Hurricane Audrey. He was the President's special emissary at the scene.

We flew into Cameron, La., together in a helicopter. It resembled one of those sample villages the Civil Defense people erect around the base of a test tower at Yucca Flat — after the hellish explosion. The sorry sight stirred some memories, excited some potentialities, in Peterson.

"We had a hundred major disasters in the United States during my four and a half years in Civil Defense," the blunt, bald Air Force officer and former governor of Nebraska said. "They ranged all the way from blizzards to an eruption of a volcano on Hawaii."

"In years gone by they would have occasioned much more loss of life and property. You can say what you will about Public Law 875 but it has made possible for the first time a sense of team play among the military, civilian and all related organizations who now respond to disasters. All these units and people now respond automatically when people are in trouble. We just didn't have this, on such a basis, before 875."

Peterson became disaster conscious while serving as Nebraska governor.

"We sure had a time with the weather when I was in, out there," he said. "Remember Operation Snowbound?"

"From one half to two thirds of the state was covered with one hundred inches of snow. By spring it dawned on me that Nebraska should have a disaster plan. It was one of the first ever put through in the nation. Any damned fool should have had sense enough to do that, of course, but now every state has something like it."

Peterson feels that this new team work and consciousness of disaster is of tremendous value to the U. S. in view of the atomic times.

"We've learned to operate in a hurry in the face of trouble," he said. "And we've learned to operate decisively, effectively and generously. These troubles we've had with the weather have provided us with the best possible laboratory for research against a military attack on the United States."

"What we went through in Louisiana after Hurricane Audrey, and what we went through during and after destruction in California, New England, Kansas City and the other places, is infinitesimal compared to the damage an enemy H-bomb would cause over a metropolitan area."

"Yet those natural disasters have briefed the people, have sent them through a training course which will serve them well if the worst comes. They've experienced all the elements of realism. They've seen death, destruction, suffering, property loss, chaos in communications."

Dulles Vindicated In Middle East

SECRETARY DULLES

WASHINGTON—Although there is an almost superstitious fear of mentioning it out loud, the feeling is growing in the State Department that America's Middle East policy is paying off. Even some Asian diplomats long critical of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and his policies now speak in cautious praise of what he has achieved since the disaster of the Suez crisis.

This small beginning of confidence may have something to do with the fact that Dulles recently had been saying to a few close associates that it was his present intention to retire as secretary of state on his 70th birthday, which is February 25, 1958.

But no one expects that he actually will step out. While the situation today is relatively settled, there are almost certain to be new crises ahead that he will feel he must resolve. And the President will want him to stay if this is his desire.

The seeming subsidence of the fire that blazed in the Middle East last November and the seeming calm that prevails for the moment elsewhere may prove wholly illusory. Two, and perhaps three, time bombs could shatter this deceptive surface at any moment.

The most obvious of these bombs is the inflammatory action of the Soviet Union in giving Egypt six submarines and training Egyptian crews to operate them. Although it is not being advertised, Israeli ships are passing through the gulf of Aqaba, which Egypt and Saudi Arabia had claimed as territorial waters. The State Department has told the 11 Arab governments that the United States affirms the right of "free and innocent passage" for the ships of all nations.

A torpedo from an Egyptian submarine through the bow of an Israeli ship could touch off another Middle East crisis at any moment.

That threat is the motive for Moscow's generosity in presenting President Gamal Abdel Nasser with the subs. They are the mechanism constantly ticking in the time bomb.

The second bomb is the continuing rebellion in Algeria with the consequent drain on French manpower and resources. This has long threatened an outbreak of uncontrollable violence with appalling bloodshed on both sides. It threatens, too, an imminent crisis in French finances.

An indication of the seriousness with which at least some Americans are beginning to take the Algerian crisis is the speech of Senator John F. Kennedy, Democrat of Massachusetts, calling attention to America's failure to try to mediate this war and the way in which it jeopardizes our position in the Arab world by linking us with French imperialism.

Kennedy is sponsoring a resolution asking that the United States use its influence to help settle the dispute. One of the deepest Arab grievances in connection with the Algerian war concerns the use by the French of military materiel provided by the United States to Franco as a NATO partner.

A third possible bomb lies in the growing bitterness between India and Pakistan over the festering Kashmir dispute. In both countries, according to recent reports, there is a growing sense of the inevitability of war.

The Indians complain passionately that they cannot meet the obligations of the latest five-year plan for industry and agriculture because they must buy arms to keep pace with those given by the United States to Pakistan as a member of the Baghdad pact.

But ignoring the threats that are for the moment below the surface of the news, Dulles can take considerable credit in the Middle East. The Arab bloc is split and Nasser's position is greatly weakened. The visit to Washington of King Saud of Saudi Arabia, widely criticized at the time, seems to have paid handsome dividends.

There are three kings in the hand that Dulles is playing in the Middle East—Saud, Faisal II of Iraq and Hussein I of Jordan. This is a pretty good hand in any poker game except that, as the Middle East specialists are aware, these cards are bound to lose their value with the passage of time.

Unless the miserable lot of the masses can be speedily improved, Arab nationalism, compounded with Communist promises, will make the status of these monarchies difficult if not untenable. Three kings are not of much help in a game with the deuces wild.

Clearly a great many most unpleasant things can happen in the next six months so that, with real reluctance or with the earnest phrases that pass for it, Dulles will find himself persuaded to stay beyond the biblical three score and 10.

On Tolerance

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It seems our old friend Bishop Kennedy is in trouble because of taking democracy seriously.

Some years ago the baseball fraternity accepted Jackie Robinson. At a later date the Metropolitan Opera Company was proud to have the great Marian Anderson as a star.

Are we now to conclude in the light of today's news from California that baseball and grand opera are more Christian than the church?

The Arab's Case

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I read with interest your account Sunday, June 30, of the Sandhills Arab—the story of his migration to this country.

Of course, what he said in respect to his experiences in and impressions about his old country, Syria, is true. The Arabs in those days and for 400 years were ruled by the Turks with the lowest form of colonialism. These years were the dark ages. Then they became subject to the most selfish colonialism of Western Europe for more than 30 years. Those years were the bloody age. During the past few years the Arab countries have been able to make progress.

At present the real issue in this Arab-Zionist conflict is over the matter of who has the genius for making more money and profits. The Arabs are fighting for their freedom and independence and for their human and natural rights. The state of Israel took away those rights, property and land from the Palestinian Arabs. So far Israel has defied 73 U.N. resolutions and committed more than 350 aggressive attacks against the Arabs. The symbol Israel stands for is a trinity of threat, expansion and bloodshed. Any state of such a character will be resisted by the Arabs. The whole Middle East is in this state of unrest and confusion because of the great injustice done to the Arabs of Palestine through the creation of Israel.

Finally I remind the "Sandhills Arab" that the Arab nation has contributed largely to the actual prosperity of the Western World. When Europe was in its infancy it gave her mathematics, architecture and national irrigation. The Arabs did that without the help of the Jews. Until very recently Palestine, when it was purely Arab, was self-sufficient. Now the State of Israel is dependent upon foreign aid and so far she has not had one single month of normal existence. Eventually the true picture will be revealed and the Arabs are confident of the end because the truth is on their side and all they ask is justice.

Key To Life

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In the world of today there are two rules that must be followed to be a winner whether it be in sport, business or as an individual. But the most neglected of these rules is the one God has laid out for us to follow.

We must keep physically fit, eat the right kind of food, get the right amount of rest, exercise or work. We must also maintain the right amount of respect for our fellow man. We must be neat and clean in body.

Then in Deuteronomy 8:18 there is another rule, not known by many. It is: "But thou shalt remember Jehovah thy God for it is he that giveth the power to get wealth that he may establish his covenant which he swore unto thy father as at that day."

We also read in Ezekiel 18-4, "Behold all souls are mine as the soul of the Father, so also the soul of the son is mine. The soul that sinneth it shall die." But God gave his only begotten son that whosoever believed on him should not perish but have eternal life—John 3:16. Then again Jehovah states in Ezekiel 18-21, "But if the wicked turn from all his sins that he hath committed and keep all my statutes and do that which is lawful and right he shall surely live, he shall not die." Later in verse 23 He says "Have I any pleasure in the death of the wicked, said the

Price Of Steel

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: President Eisenhower, commenting on the raise in the price of steel, said that he is against freezing prices. That was an invitation to business and labor to go right on raising prices, causing inflation to go on without any end to it.

Someday they will see and end it. The people generally want to see an end to it.

Some Impressive Facts

So the Sanitary Board could not raise the levy to build a dam without legislative approval. That's that. All is not yet futility. The chief sources of trouble Monday were two bridge structures at 27th and D and C—structures which backed up the water. Amazingly where there had been a job of channel straightening of Antelope north of Randolph and along Capitol Parkway there was no overflow of the Creek. It was contained within its banks—a foot or two from the top of spilling over. The particular flood problem in the Antelope grows out of acres of rooftops, huge areas of paved streets, equally impressive areas of paved driveways and miles of sidewalk in a low-lying level section where the runoff is not particularly rapid and where drainage is delayed.

Dams may help but dams are not going to avert floods in times of heaviest rainfall. After all the hallelujah here locally while the watershed idea was being sold to people, we called the Weather Radio to discover, in recent flood troubles there, its people were standing up to their ears in flood water, figuratively.

Demo Russell Urges Nationwide Popular Vote For Civil Rights Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate jumped the gun Tuesday on its forthcoming civil rights debate. Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) blasted the House-passed right-to-vote bill sponsored by the Eisenhower administration, as a device for "bayonet" enforcement of school integration. He urged that the whole measure be submitted to a nationwide popular vote.

Some northerners scoffed at Russell's impassioned speech. Said Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill): "Seldom have I seen so many ghosts under a single bed."

The flurry of orations came as Republican Senate leader Knowland (Calif.) told at the White House of plans to bring the civil rights bill up for debate early next week. Southerners, led by Russell, are ready to try talking it to death.

Russell took issue, by plain implication, with President Eisenhower's past statements that the bill is a "moderate" and "decent" attempt to assure the voting rights of southern Negroes and others.

"Deliberate"

The Georgia senator told his colleagues that actually the bill was "deliberately drawn to enable the use of our military forces to destroy the system of separation of the races in the southern states, if it be necessary to take this step."

With a fervor seldom seen on the Senate floor these days, Russell told his Republican and northern Democratic antagonists: "If you propose to move into the South in this fashion you may as well prepare your concentration camps now, for there will not be enough jails to hold the people in the South who will today oppose the use of raw federal power to forcibly comingle white and negro children in the same schools and places of public entertainment."

Dirksen said Russell was greatly exaggerating the possible effects of the bill. It is enacted, Dirksen said, "the heavens will not be rent asunder, the earth will not rock and roll."

Voicing agreement, Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) said the measure does not envision all the "horrible consequences" predicted by Russell.

Protection

"Its primary purpose is throw added protection around the right to vote," said the Illinois senator. Russell told newsmen the referendum he proposed would be similar to those frequently conducted among farmers on the question of production and marketing controls.

As he explained it, the bill itself would be amended to provide for a national referendum on the civil rights legislation, with the issue to be decided by simple majority vote.

The amendment would provide that other sections of the bill

Parker Denied Rehearing By High Court

The State Supreme Court denied a motion for a rehearing to Darrel Parker, former Lincoln forester serving a life term for the murder of his wife.

The high court previously had affirmed the Lancaster District Court conviction of Parker, found guilty of killing his wife, Nancy, in December, 1955.

Parker's attorneys said Tuesday, following report of the Supreme Court action, that they will "use every avenue" to obtain a new trial. Tom McManus, one of the counsel defending Parker, said a new appeal may be made on the basis of new evidence.

McManus said this evidence had not yet been set out.

Found Guilty

Parker was found guilty and sentence pronounced after one of the most celebrated murder trials in Lancaster County history. He was arrested seven days after his wife was found dead in the Antelope Park home occupied by the city forester.

In denial motions Tuesday, two other cases were turned down on rehearing requests. These included a divorce case involving Delores Lucille Workman vs. Frank M. Workman.

Lancaster District Court had granted Delores Workman a divorce and contested property settlement.

The third rehearing denied was to Elmer Hoffman, who was convicted in a Saline District Court of embezzlement. He was found guilty in June, 1956, of embezzling $11,400 in gasoline from the Farmers Elevator Co. in Saline County.

Hoffman was sentenced to the Men's Reformatory for two to three years.

3-Year-Old Girl Injured By Auto

Three-year-old Corinne Robbins of 1035 C suffered cuts and bruises about the body in a pedestrian-car accident between 10th and 11th on C.

Corinne was treated at St. Elizabeth and hospitalized. She was reported in fair condition.

Police said Corinne ran north across C Street from in front of a parked car. An eastbound car on C driven by Mary Brinson, 51, of Odell collided with her.

Proposed Little Blue Dam Gains Backers

Project Study Set To Begin Soon—Berg

HEBRON, Neb. — Interest in a proposed Little Blue River Dam near Angus gained momentum as 219 persons gathered here for a discussion of the project.

Petitions were signed by many attending and will be forwarded to Nebraska's Congressional delegation.

The Hebron meeting was called after Interior Department officials announced that strong local interest would have to be shown before the department would begin detailed studies of the proposed dam.

Responsible for the Hebron meeting were two Hebron men, Paul McKenzie and Thomas Schultz, farmers whose lands were damaged severely by recent floodwaters of the Little Blue.

10-Year Project

Addressing the group was Paul Berg, head of the Bureau of Reclamation office at McCook. He stated that a pre-detail study of the project will begin shortly to determine the feasibility of a complete study. If the preliminary findings are favorable, Berg said, a detailed study will be made and forwarded to Congress for consideration.

Berg explained that it would be about 1960 before plans for the project could reach Congress, and at least 10 years before the proposed dam could be completed.

The dam, Berg explained, would be 10,000 feet long and from 115 to 125 feet in height. He said it would have an irrigation pool of about 4,000 acres. Its overall size would be about two-thirds the size of the Harlan County Dam near Alma.

Would Flood Road

Location of the dam would be approximately two miles east of Highway 14 in the Angus area of Nuckolls County. This would mean relocation of the highway, Berg added.

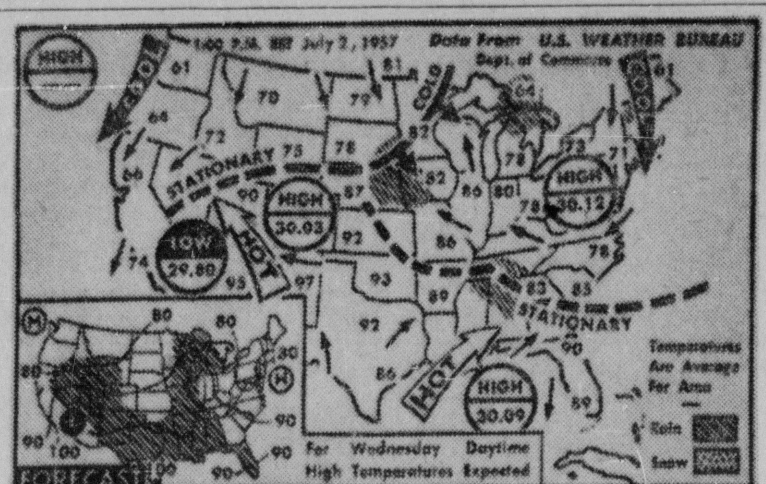

Berg hinted that 50 per cent of the irrigation bloc would be southwest of Hebron.

Interested persons from Thayer, Nuckolls and Jefferson Counties attended the gathering.

Crops Need Some Warm, Dry Weather

Nebraska crops could use a spell of warm, dry weather, government crop observers indicated Tuesday. Rains have kept farmers out of fields, with the result some farmers won't catch up on row crop cultivation before the harvest of small grain begins, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Wheat ripening also has been slowed by wet soil and high humidity. Black stem rust is present in practically all wheat fields in the eastern half of Nebraska and rains have caused much wheat to go down in the field.

Range Feed Abundant

On the other hand, the weekly crop report said, pasture and range feed is abundant and livestock are making good gains. Sugar beets, dry beans and potatoes have made excellent development in the Panhandle, with relatively light damage from flooding or hail.

Oats and barley are ripening, and although lodging and weeds prevail in some areas, yield prospects generally are good.

Other crop report observations: Weeds in corn and sorghum rows are causing considerable trouble.

Nebraska News

Many farmers are spraying for weeds. Lowlands have been too wet for replanting in some cases and in south-central Nebraska, large lagoons have taken a rather heavy toll of crops.

Rains Delay Harvest

The wheat harvest is under way in southeastern Nebraska but wet fields are causing some delay. Hail damage has been "quite extensive" this year. Heavy rains had lodged much wheat and farmers will have considerable difficulty harvesting the crop in view of the heavy amount of straw.

Harvest of wild hay began last week in some areas, but the main harvest will not get under way until next week. Alfalfa is about ready for its second cutting.

Temperatures last week averaged about five degrees below normal. Precipitation ranged from light to moderate over most of the northern and central portions, to heavy to excessive over most of the south, where weekly totals up to 3.74 were reported.

Rain fell over some part of the state every day last week.

Moisture throughout the state for the week ending Monday included:

Grand Island	45
Lincoln	50
Central Division

North Platte	50

South Central Top Wet Spot

South Central Nebraska, the wet spot in a wet season, has received 16.72 inches of rain since April 1, the Lincoln Weather Bureau reported.

The total, through June 28, compares with a longtime average of 9.36 inches for the same period.

Rainfall totals in other Nebraska areas since April 1, compared with average for the period, include:

Stanton Delaplane's POSTCARD

There were only six of us. Myself and five ladies. But the travel company sent over an enormous Fiat bus.

It was plushly upholstered and had huge picture windows. The top slid back. There were little writing tables and cigarette trays.

Like all Italian buses, it carried a pilot and copilot. Their quarters were more elegant than those of a ship's captain. They squeezed it through the narrow Roman streets like Caesar returning in triumph.

It was a fine sunny, warm day in Rome. We eased down past the lovely fountain in Piazza Iseda and out onto the Via Appia. Bound for the romantic south—Naples, Pompei, Sorrento, Amalfi.

It is a very comfortable road running south on the Via Appia.

At Terracina you reach the deep blue sea. We halted for coffee and all the ladies hustled off to a pretty beach resort.

I watched the bus drivers and followed them into a little coffee house. They were standing there behind the beaded curtains. Belting a bottle of red wine.

"For the digestion," said the driver. "Against the heat."

"I will join you. My digestion needs first aid. Also I feel the heat."

The owner drew up little black cups of espresso coffee and poured me a glass of wine. My digestion improved. The heat cooled.

We mounted the chariot again and drove south. The copilot spoke Spanish and French but no English. He advised me to buy coral and cameos. He would stop at a cameo factory.

"What is my commission?" (I am learning about this conducted tour business.)

The driver's face fell. "What commission?"

"Let's not haggle. I am conducting these ladies on a tour of Europe. Whatever they buy, I should have a commission."

"What about me?" said the driver bitterly. "I am a poor man. You would rob me?"

"I am a poor man myself. Do you realize what I have to do for these ladies? Carry their luggage. See that they arrive safely."

"They are rich Americans," said the driver. "Charge them double."

"I have already charged them double. It is not enough. They are rich but careful with their money. The cocierges at the hotels are bleeding me white. The bellboys spit on me unless I give them large tips. The maids bring them torn towels and do not change their sheets."

"We could bring the cameos on the bus and raise the price," he said.

"They prefer to buy in stores. They have read travel columns by an American journalist. He warns them against such things."

"Who is the pig?"

"Signor Delaplane."

"I spit on him," said the bus driver. "Such people take the bread from us."

"So do I. He is a low type. Probably with secret vices."

But as it turned out, the ladies were not interested in cameos. They hardly bought a thing. The bus driver put a finger under his eye. The sign that means "watch out." He looked at me with sympathy. And we rode into Naples to lunch on little sweet clams sprinkled with lemon juice. A satisfactory day."

Town Talk

FOURTH OF JULY is a big day almost everywhere in the USA, but it's to be an especially big day at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John Peterson.

Arriving yesterday from Rockford, Ill., were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brigham and their three children, Richard, John and Martha, who will divide their vacation stay in Lincoln between Mrs. Brigham's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Peterson, and Mr. Brigham's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ray Brigham.

Coming from Hastings on Thursday morning to join the family group will be Dr. and Mrs. Peterson's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joe King and their four children, Stephen, Tony, Peter and Mary, who will remain for the Fourth of July week-end.

On Thursday Dr. and Mrs. Peterson will have a picnic supper at their home for members of the family, and included in the group will be their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson and their daughter, Mary Catherine; and Dr. and Mrs. Ray Brigham.

ANOTHER guest who will be in town for the Fourth of July week-end is Miss Ann Duggan of Denver who arrives tomorrow morning for a Thursday to-Sunday stay with her aunt, Mrs. Frank Williams, and Mr. Williams.

On Fourth of July evening Mr. and Mrs. Williams will be host and hostess at a family picnic supper at their home.

MENTION of the Williams' family reminds us that their daughter and house guest, Mrs. Harold Palmer of Wilmington, Del., was honored on Tuesday when Mrs. E. C. Ames was a luncheon hostess. The guest included a small group of Mrs. Palmer's friends.

ALSO on Lincoln's guest list is Mrs. H. E. Kivitt of St. Joseph, Mo., who is spending a few weeks as the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth DuTeau.

UNDERSTAND that Robert L. Grainger arrived on Sunday, as per schedule, to join Mrs. Grainger and two Grainger sons, Bill and Johnny, who have been the guests of Mrs. Grainger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. White for the past few weeks, and who also have been visiting Mr. Grainger's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Browne, Jr.

After a week that seems to be generously dotted with a variety of informal courtesies, Mr. and Mrs. Grainger and their sons will return to Salinas, Calif.

SOMEONE told us that Mrs. Herbert R. Newman is arriving today from La Grange, Ill., and will spend several days as the house guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kinsey.

HAVE SOME vacationers to mention this morning—Understand that Mr. and Mrs. Del Scott and their children will be leaving on Wednesday for a visit with friends and relatives in Amarillo, Tex., and Pocatello, Idaho.

AND ALSO on the list of travelers are Mr. and Mrs. John McCabe and their family who also will be taking off on Wednesday for a summer holiday in Estes Park, Colo.

held at the Taylor home. Out of town guests on hand for the party were Miss Pearce's grandmothers, Mrs. L. J. Zellmer and Mrs. J. B. Baker, both of Birmingham, Ala.

Lancaster County Assessed Valuation Up 3.07%

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County's 1957 assessed valuation gained nearly $5.8 million—an increase of 3.07 per cent—over last year's assessment total.

County Assessor Arthur M. Davis' abstract of real and personal property showed a basic valuation of $386,868,675 or an assessed valuation (50 per cent of basic) of $193,434,335.

The 1957 gain of $5,772,710 assessed valuation was less than the 1956 increase of $9,837,880. Percentagewise, last year's gain was 5.5 per cent as compared with this year's 3.07 per cent.

Lincoln Real Estate Leads

Dollarwise, Lincoln real estate led the gains in all categories, except personal property which showed a slump.

Lincoln property, up 4 per cent, gained $4.6 million, compared with last year's $7.3 million gain.

The comparable breakdowns for the 1957, 1956, and 1955 abstracts:

Assessed Valuation	1957	1956	1955
Personal .....	$ 8,082,230	$ 9,658,695	$ 10,877,725
Business .....	14,714,075	13,209,300	13,347,690
Specials .....	22,168,580	21,305,045	18,061,890
Farm Lands .....	29,299,165	28,935,715	28,250,360
Lincoln Real .....	117,912,075	113,308,230	106,088,160
Towns & Villages .....	1,257,210	1,244,640	1,197,920

Grand Totals .....$193,434,335      $187,661,625      $177,823,745

Dollar percentage changes for the categories (in terms of assessed valuation, half of the basic value):

Personal schedules, down 11.575-465 or 16 per cent; business schedules, up $1,504,775 or 11.4 per cent; specials, up $838,535 or 4 per cent; farm lands, up $293,450 or 1.4 per cent; and villages up $12,570 or a negligible percentage.

The heaviest and only loss in basic value assessments was the personal property drop to $16,166,460 from last year's $19,317,390.

1956 Drought

The personal property drop was said to reflect last year's drought. Household goods were down to $8.4

See Table

basic valuation, from $9.8 million. Tractors and farm machinery dropped from $3.1 million to $2.6 million.

Hogs and sheep showed some gain but cattle and poultry declined. The 10,645 hogs were valued at $180,240 in 1957 as compared with 14,250 swine and a $169,464 valuation in 1956. Sheep were up to $29,050 from $22,830.

The cattle population of 39,940 was valued at $2,482,995, compared with the previous year's 44,067 cattle and $2,690,570 valuation.

Less Grain

This year's $1,190,785 valuation on 1.1 million bushels of grain is comparable to last year's $1,310,385 value on 1,190,785 bushels.

Basic business and equipment inventories totalled $27,010,485 this year, compared with last year's $24,795,740. This was a $3 million gain over last year's negligible rise.

Class A intangible property (cash, bank and savings accounts, postal savings and book or open accounts) increased to $40,328,745 from $38,483,595. This was a $2 million increase, compared with last year's $1 million drop.

Increase In Stocks

Class B intangible (stocks and bonds, securities, etc.) totalled $60,284,840—an increase of $5.6 million from last year's $54,647,585. Last year's gain was nearly $9 million.

Largest increase was in stocks and bonds, but earnings of banks, trust and investment companies, building and loan associations and credit unions also were up.

Bank and investment company earnings were up to $13.5 million from $12.5 million. Savings and loan associations reported earnings up to $1.7 million from $1.5 million.

The 1957 total intangible tax on all classes is $403,527.02, compared with $371,781.95 in 1956.

Determined Later

Railroad, franchise and Pullman valuations for 1957 will be determined later by the State Board of Equalization.

The number of individual schedules were down slightly, but Davis said this was because of a greater number of schedules showing no assessable valuation which are not counted. Business and special schedules increased.

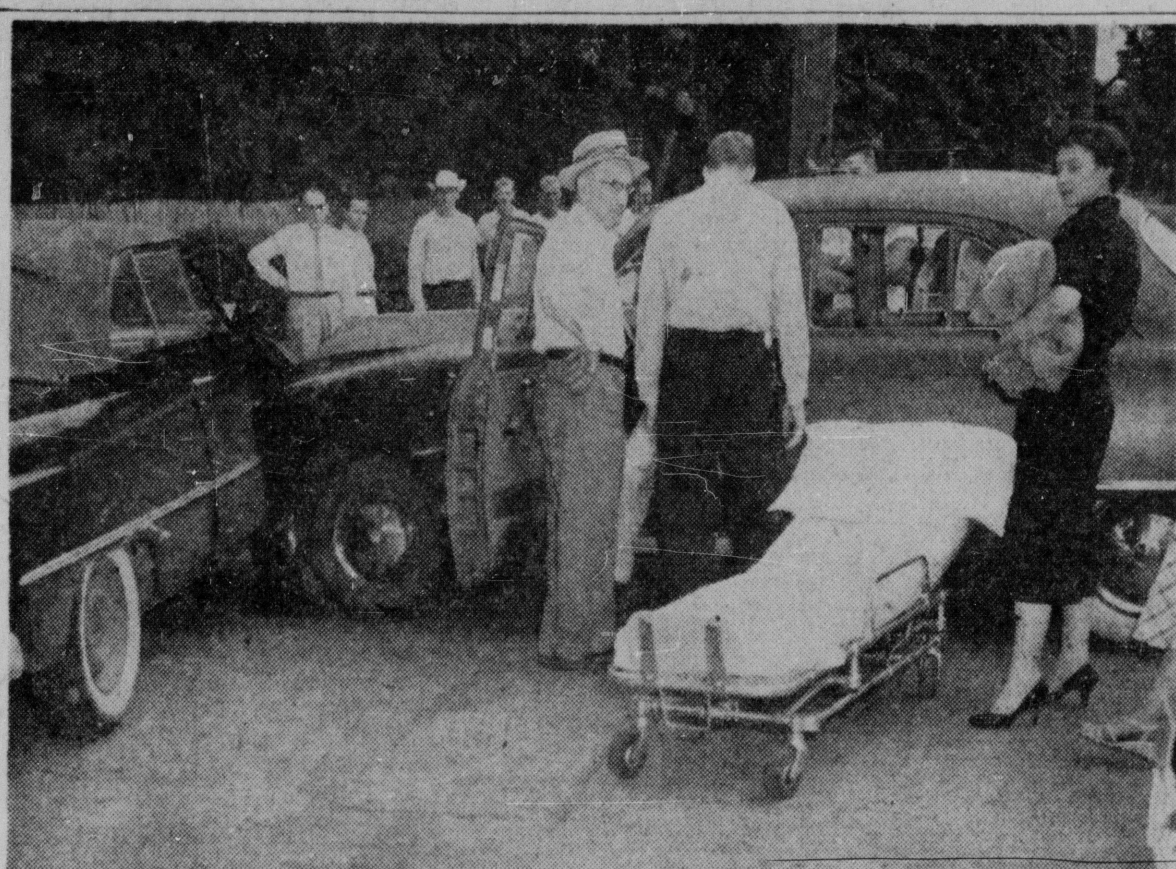

The increase in the number of "no valuation" schedules was due to the "more generous depreciation schedule allowed," Davis said.

The number of 1957 schedules, with 1956 totals shown in parentheses: Individual, 42,537 (42,818); business, 3,273 (3,142), and special, 92 (86).

The trustee of American Buslines Inc. has been granted until Sept. 16 to present a modification of the proposed reorganization plan for the company to meet the objections of the U.S. Secretary of the Treasury as to taxes due.

The government had filed an objection to the reorganization plan as to its claims for taxes. American Buslines, with home offices at Lincoln, is undergoing reorganization proceedings in U.S. District Court.

FOREIGN POLICY INFLUENCED BY INDIVIDUAL CITIZENS—ROBINS

A consultant for the Foreign Policies Association said Tuesday that citizens should realize foreign policy making is done not only by the President, but by a network of people beginning with the individual citizen.

Dorothy B. Robins, who will conclude a three-day visit at the University of Nebraska Wednesday, said Americans need to know about their country's foreign policy, since they are citizens of a democracy and indirectly influence foreign policy formulation.

Letters To The Editor

Speaking with students, faculty members and Nebraska school superintendents, she said citizens should learn about and express themselves on foreign issues in whatever way they are able, even if only in a letter to the editor.

She said the object of her work with the Foreign Policies Association is not political action, but only to start people thinking on inter-

Four Reasons

She listed four reasons why America should cultivate an interest in foreign affairs.

1. The United States has recently arrived on the international scene.
2. More Americans are traveling abroad and need to go prepared for the problems they encounter.
3. The world is smaller as a result of better systems of transportation and communication.
4. The world is constantly changing and it is necessary to keep abreast before we are left behind.

Beck: Nebraska To Appeal Grandsinger Decision

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

Atty. Gen. C. S. Beck said Tuesday the State of Nebraska will appeal last week's ruling by U.S. District Judge John Delehant in the Loyd Grandsinger case.

Judge Delehant ruled Grandsinger's conviction void because of "ineffective counsel" during the trial.

The case now goes to the three-man U.S. District Court of Appeals of the Eighth District in St. Louis, Mo.

Grandsinger, in custody at the State Penitentiary, was convicted of the gun slaying of State Trooper Marvin Hansen in April, 1954. He was found guilty in a Cherry County District Court in June the same year.

In a statement released Tuesday, Beck said he had studied the memorandum prepared by Delehant and had concluded that because the basis for the decision "raises such an important and grave issue in the administration of justice, and because the principle involved extends beyond this one case, it will be necessary that we appeal."

Beck noted the case was reviewed by the State Supreme Court and the conviction and sentence from Cherry County affirmed. He also noted that the U.S. Supreme Court had declined to review that decision.

"Under those circumstances we feel justified in asking the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to review the decision."

The decision of Judge Delehant in voiding the original conviction—although not recommending Grandsinger be released from custody—was based on evidence of tampering by Grandsinger's attorney, Charles A. Fisher of Chadron.

Fisher admitted before the jury he enlarged a bullet hole in the trooper's belt with a wooden dowl.

Grandsinger's present counsel, Eugene O'Sullivan Sr. of Omaha who is teamed up with Charles Flansburg of Lincoln, said he expected the state's appeal.

"They have a right to appeal and I expected they would," O'Sullivan said.

BILLION GALLONS OF WATER FELL

Four thousand acre feet, or 1,300,000,000 gallons of water was dumped on Lincoln when 4.66 inches of rain fell in a five-hour period. It was estimated by Eugene Reed, director of the University of Nebraska conservation and survey division.

That 4,000 acre feet, he said, would be enough water to irrigate 2,000 acres of corn land for an entire season.

Lobbyists Report

Legislative lobbyists who filed expense statements with the secretary of state included Stanley Matzke, Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation Assn., for $47 for June; Dale Payne, Nebraska New Car Dealers Assn., $501.98 for May and $178.33 for June; and Gordon Preble, State AFL-CIO, $91.85 for June.

Health Board Has Two New Members

The Lancaster County Board approved Tuesday the appointment of Dr. F. G. Laymon, representative of the Lincoln District Dental Society, and J. Bernard Dresselhaus, Lincoln certified public accountant, as new members of the Lincoln-Lancaster Board of Health.

The three-year appointments effective until June 30, 1960, were previously approved by the City Council.

The two men will replace Dr. W. W. Webster and E. Ross Martin, whose terms have expired.

CIGARETTE TAXES DOWN THIS YEAR

Cigarette tax collections for the 1956-57 fiscal year which ended June 30 amounted to $3,929,759, or $35,011 less than the total collected during the previous fiscal year, according to H. L. Wichman, chief of the state cigarette tax division.

June collections totaled $334,763, compared with $328,929 for May and $348,838 for June of 1956, Wichman said.

A bill passed by the 1957 Legislature, which will go into effect Sept. 20, will add one cent to the state tax per package.

New Sidney Club

Francis H. Runge, Virgil C. Walters, Vera Klentz, Joyce Walters and Frank Klentz are incorporators of the non-profit Mt. Vernon Community Center of Sidney, Neb., a club formed to furnish recreational and social facilities for members. Articles of incorporation for the club were filed with the secretary of state.
